EARLY INTERVENTION
SUPPORT AND ADVOCACY
FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Reconnecting Home, Anglicare's Homeless Youth Assistance Program, offers early intervention support and brokerage to young people, within the Murrumbidgee region, who find themselves homeless, or at risk of becoming homeless.

Reconnecting Home, can it help me?

Reconnecting Home, Anglicare's Homeless Youth Assistance Program, offers early intervention support and brokerage to young people aged 12–15 years, within the Murrumbidgee region, who find themselves homeless, or at risk of becoming homeless.

Young people can become homeless for many reasons: it may be because of a family relationship breakdown and/or conflict with their parents. Ideally, the young person will go back to their family home, however if that's not safe, we will assist them to find alternate accommodation.

Reconnecting Home can help young people:

- work things out with their family
- assistance with building life skills and preparation for individual living circumstances
- stay in school when it gets tough
- connect them to other supports in their Community
- ensure their Mental Health and Emotional Wellbeing is being supported; and
- find somewhere safe to stay if remaining at home is not an option.

Reconnecting Home can help parents, guardians and families:

- work things out with the young person
- find the best way to talk things through
- learn to live together when things are hard
- assist the young person and their families with appointments and service support
- connect them to other supports in their Community; and
- learn to live apart but stay connected.
